

‘Alalā

Aloha! My name is Polohiwa and I am an endemic crow, which means I am found only in Hawai‘i. I have soft brownish-black feathers, and a large black bill which I use to eat fruits and small mammals. Because the forests that my kind call home is are longer healthy, we all now live in captivity and are cared for by humans. One day, with hard work, the forest will be my home again.

